Classic Cocktails

Camillo Negroni

16.50

It is told that the Negroni was invented in Florence, Italy in 1919, at Caffè Casoni. It was named for Count Camillo Negroni, the man who invented it by asking a bartender (Fosco Scarselli) to add gin to the Americano, his favorite drink. The word Negroni does not appear in English cocktail guides before 1947. All we have done to this original recipe is add a hint of rosemary to the gin.

John Gotti Manhattan

16.50

The “manhattan” was said to have originated at the Manhattan Club in New York City in the early 1870s, where it was invented for a banquet held in honor of presidential candidate Samuel J. Tilden. The success of the banquet made the drink fashionable, later prompting people to request the drink by the name of the club where it originated. Usually made with a rye whiskey though the teflon don himself was said to be partial to a bourbon manhattan.

Paris, Tokyo

The Vodka matini or “vodkatini” The most basic of all classic creations, not anymore... we’ve taken it far across the globe and back and it picked up a few new flavors along the way. Using an orange infusion of what the French would argue to be “the best vodka in the world.” Combined with a ginger enriched sake.

The perfect Gin martini

25

The first and most vital ingredient to this cocktail is love. The second is care, the third delicacy, the rest a perfect balance between Hendricks gin and Noilly Prat dry vermouth with wafer thin slices of fresh cucumber as accompaniment

Signature Cocktails

Breakfast at Thompson's 16
A refreshing recipe, fresh grapefruit, traditional homemade marmalade, Tanqueray gin topped with the scent of basil.

One hot Friday 16
A spiced rum creation combining caramelised Pineapple, Cinnamon, French Gingerbread liquer and a touch of chilli.

The storyteller 16
A sentimental sour, Jameson's whiskey sharing something magical with homemade Almond Honey.

Moonshine 16
In Southern state style, Woodford reserve Bourbon introduced to a sweet tamarillo mash with and a touch of dubonet.

Bird of paradise 16
A rich blend of sweet Mango, Tequila, Hazelnut, fresh Mint to scent and organic Yoghurt to thicken.

Velvet 16
Homemade vanilla essence reinforces fragrant vanilla vodka and French violet liquer to create the taste and texture of velvet.
